

INTERNSHIP IN CHINA

Chengdu American Center for Study Abroad

Introduction to G-MEO's Internship Program

Since the Chengdu American Center's establishment in 2012, G-MEO's internship program has successfully hosted over 20 cohorts with hundreds of students. This program enhances students' Chengdu experience and provides them with the chance to gain skills that today's employers are looking for. After the outbreak of COVID-19, G-MEO's internship program continued to benefit Chinese students from U.S. universities who were unable to return to the US from China. In the Fall semester of 2021, 9 students took the Professional Development and Experiential Learning in China course, and interned at six different companies or institutions, including Aidi Eye Hospital Chengdu, Cegos Chengdu Branch Office, Chengdu Guyuan Health Consultation Co., Ltd, Chengdu Plus (Chengdu Radio and Television), DeHeng Law Offices (Chengdu), and G-MEO.

Student Voice

I feel very good about my internship. First of all, this internship is very close to my major, and I usually get to witness many experienced colleagues and choreographers editing and ask them for some advice. Secondly, I was able to get more familiar with the culture of Chengdu by going out to do site-visits and shoots, and I was also able to practice my communication skills when communicating with the guests being interviewed. Finally, although I don't have a lot of work to do, I don't feel particularly bored, maybe I really like this internship. All in all, the internship was really rewarding for me.

Student Voice

It's good. People like me, and I can learn something new every day. The main difficulty of my internship is adapting to the new environment and meeting new people. I am currently studying interviewing, training, and planning. Interviewing includes how to conduct the interview, ask questions, read resumes, etc. Training requires you to sort out your own logic and find the key points you need to talk about. Planning is all about coming up with new and unique ideas for events.

Internship Supervisor Assessment

Overall, Kun Wu's performance during the past month was good and met our expectations. Kun has very good communication skills and is always ready to speak his mind. He can usually quickly understand the delivered messages and his words can be understood clearly. Kun can always complete his daily assignments punctually and the results can be directly adopted into our work. Last, he is capable to edit videos and undertake other related tasks which we happen to need. I am looking forward to seeing his future performance. Again, Kun provides a lot of assistance to our work. As an intern, we expect more outcomes from him beyond just his job duties. In this way, he can acquire more practical skills for his future career or school assignment. Thank you very much, G-MEO, for always being here to support us.
